GOL DARNED APE MAKES HIS ESCAPE TO EAT POTATOES

Charlie Chaplin, the big ape now being exhibited at Chesapeake Beach, is back in his cage today after a wild dash for freedom that terrorized excursionists and compelled his attendants to institute an all-night search. It all happened because Charlie didn't like the looks of his attendant. When the attendant opened the door of the cage to lead Charlie out for his afternoon performance, the ape pushed him square in the face, knocking him head over heels. With a wild grin on his face, the ape then raced along the crowded boardwalk, leaped to the sandy beach, scampered among the frightened bathers, and took for the wood at a lively clip. Three dogs and numerous attendants took up the chase. Night fell, and all during the hours of darkness attendants scoured the woods, flashing searchlights in vain.

Soon after dawn the telephone at the office of the manager of the ape at the beach rang. A farmer was at the other end.

"See here," he said, "did you know that that 'air gol darned ape of yours is perched up on top of my barn chewing up all of my potatoes?"

Charlie was called for immediately.

DETAILS OF U.S. DORMITORY PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

Bids for the construction of dormitories for Government workers on the sites recently selected by order of the President were today invited by the Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation of the Department of Labor.

Groups containing unit buildings, each consisting of 150 rooms, will be located at the Union Station Plaza and on the site bounded by Fourteenth, Fifteenth and B streets and Ohio avenue northwest. Each unit of 150 rooms will have its own office, reception room, sitting rooms, and other facilities. The units will be called residence halls and will be operated as hotels.

Water in Each Room.

Each room will measure nine by eleven feet and each will be provided with a clothes closet and running water, hot and cold. Shower baths and tubs and toilets will be provided for each group of about twenty-five rooms. The rooms are all designed for occupancy by one person.

In the basements will be small supplementary laundries for the use of residents. Small kitchens are planned also in the basements.

At the Union Station three groups of buildings are to be erected. Two groups will consist of three units, each unit having 150 rooms. The third group will consist of six units of 150 rooms each.

At the Fourteenth and Fifteenth street site there will be five units of 150 rooms each. There will also be two apartment units consisting of three four-room apartments, numbering about fifty all told.

Three Stories High.

The buildings will be of terra cotta blocks covered with stucco, three stories in height. Each group will contain a central administration office and a public hall, in which dances and other public meetings may be held. Every individual unit will also possess a small hall.

Apartment units will be available for married couples. Plans are now being made for a building for men at the Union Station site.

Contracts should be awarded within a week. The Bureau of Industrial Housing hopes to secure the completion of the buildings within four months. They would thus be ready for occupancy in December.

2 TORPEDO BOATS SUNK BY BRITISH AIR RAID BOMBERS

LONDON, July 23.—Two German torpedo boats were sunk by bombs during the last British air raid over the North Sea, said a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam today.

British airmen have been bombing Zebrugga at close intervals for several months.

Our Next Talk Next Tuesday.

OME things are never cheap no matter how little, may be paid for them.

If a person has little regard for his eyes and is willing to take a chance of having his vision seriously impaired—perhaps lost altogether—he can buy glasses for as little as ten cents a pair.

It stands to reason that the offers of 45 glasses for a dollar and similar nonsensical and misleading propositions are not based on common honesty.

And it stands to reason also that anyone without a medical education—without the advantage of a thorough knowledge of the human body—is not competent to treat organs so delicate and so important as the human eyes.

Let other people take the chances. When you suspect that your eyes need attention go to an oculist—a physician—for treatment.

And if he orders glasses for you, see to it that his prescription is filled by an optician who is thoroughly capable of making and fitting glasses in exact accordance with the oculist's prescription.
